

Tunbridge Wells Cultural & Learning Hub

Newsletter – 8th May 2017

Rebranding:

Kent based company Vincent Design have been appointed as Branding Consultant and have begun work on renaming the Hub.

They have taken all the findings from the previous renaming consultations and have been interviewing service leads to better understand the different perspectives and services involved in the project. They are developing ideas for the new name and branding of the Hub, producing a longlist of names to be worked through by the project team.

Pop-up Consultation:

Jasmine Farram, Project Co-ordinator, has been hosting a series of pop-up consultations around future programming in the hub. This will feed into the Activity Plan, a document required by Heritage Lottery Fund.

We've been asking your opinion on the theme of 'making', taster sessions for Adult Education courses, potential exhibitions and artist membership schemes.

These sessions have been well attended and have taken place in district libraries as well as Tunbridge Wells Library/Museum, Adult Education Centre and Gateway.

Next Steps:

The architects Purcell have now begun work on RIBA 3 detailed designs with public consultation being planned as we speak.

The Project Team will present to Heritage Lottery Fund at the Mid Stage Review in June. With stage 2 submissions to both Arts Council England and HLF due in July and August 2017.

Thank you for your continued support. If you have any questions about the project or suggestions for things to cover in this newsletter email:
